

Statement from the Directors

How Innovolo are Safeguarding Against Coronavirus

This is a slightly different post to the kind we'd normally share but we wanted to write this today to update you on our stance in relation to the Coronavirus pandemic.

We also wanted to take the opportunity to update you on the steps we are taking to ensure we are protecting the health and safety of our customers and our team members while continuing to deliver successful product development projects on time and on budget.

Here at Innovolo HQ, we have introduced a range of precautionary measures in order to minimise any risk of virus transmission. We're monitoring worldwide developments closely and putting into practice the advice from HM Government and the World Health Organisation to ensure the safest possible working environment is maintained, so that our service to our clients can continue uninterrupted.

In particular, we have a careful focus on optimal levels of cleanliness and hygiene in the workplace and have postponed any unnecessary business travel - especially any trips that require the use of public transport.

We are making extensive use of online video conferencing facilities in place of face-to-face meetings and have taken measures to ensure that essential operations on behalf of our clients can continue even if remote working becomes necessary.

As your product development partner, Innovolo maintain an extensive directory of supply chain contacts located all around the globe. We are helping clients experiencing supply chain difficulties due to the coronavirus and would encourage you to get in touch if you need any assistance in this area.

If you have any questions, please get in touch with us directly – we look forward to helping you soon!

Thank you for your support.
